most memorable meals of 2016

🕒 DECEMBER 28, 2016 👤 MAD HUNGRY WOMAN 💬 LEAVE A COMMENT

It is the last week of 2016 and I cannot wait for it to be over. It's been a year of devastation for so many. While I can hardly put myself in the same category as those who have lost so much, I can say it wasn't a great year in terms of culinary breakthroughs either. Therefore, it wasn't hard to select the handful of restaurants which stood out this year. This is my year-end compilation of the most memorable meals of 2016... with the BIG reveal of THE BEST meal of the year in my next post.

LONG BEACH

Aji Peruvian – in 2016, we visited this eatery three times. I rarely get to revisit a restaurant more than once, but my son absolutely loves it and even insisted I bring him here for his birthday this year.

ABOUT ME

This blog is a journal of mostly my eating adventures, but also, other things I'm passionate about, including travel, the arts, and also, necessities to complete my life. Centered predominantly in and around Orange County, CA, some will extend to Los Angeles, San Diego and beyond. I am constantly searching for delicious food to eat and fun

Berlin Bistro — I cannot stress enough how much I love Berlin Bistro. This is also the first place in southern California which serves a REAL flatbread — not the pizzas pretending to be flatbreads.

Sura Korean BBQ & Tofu House — this Korean restaurant stands out from the others. Why? Most restaurants are not able to retain its authenticity when offering fusion dishes on their menus. Sura has managed to successfully balance the two. The bulgogi fries will keep those with less adventurous palates happy, while at the same time, satisfying diners looking to indulge in a bowl of authentic yukejang or galbi tang. The comforts of home-made food for me, and Korean wagyu sliders for the kids.

ORANGE COUNTY

D'Vine — if you're looking for solid Mediterranean fare, look no further than D'Vine in downtown Fullerton. Fresh, clean flavors in a lovely environment.

things to do, nothing is out of bounds. Sometimes it doesn't end well, but I can definitely say, it will always be an interesting journey.
